

Achieved, Merit and Excellence Paragraphs

---

Achieved is making a point and explain how it links to what is in the graph.

Merit is either making a good point and linking it to the graph, or backing up with what it means.

Excellence is making a good point and linking it to the graph and the wider context.

An Achieved paragraph might look like:

From my graphs, I can see more students in our class have blue eyes as the blue bar is the tallest.

A Merit paragraph might look like:

From my graphs, I can see more students in our class have blue eyes. I know this as the blue bar is tallest on the bar graph. The blue sector is also biggest in the pie chart.

An Excellence paragraph might look like:

From my graphs, I can see more students in our class have blue eyes. I know this as the blue bar is tallest on the bar graph. The blue sector is also biggest in the pie chart. This would mean if a student came up to me from my class they would be more likely to have blue eyes than any other colour.
