

Census at School

---

These lessons use a dataset from Census at school... the best way to understand where this data has come from is to take part in the census at school project. Taking part is free and helps create an awesome resource for schools around New Zealand and around the world to use.

Once a class completes the census at school survey the teacher is also given a link to download their class' dataset, so that you can use it to produce your own graphs and investigation.

Full details on taking part in the census at school project are here:

<http://new.censusatschool.org.nz/take-part/>